

DIXON GIRL AND TWO MEN KILLED IN COLLISION

KIDNAPPED GIRL RETURNED HOME THURSDAY NIGHT

Maryland Girl 'Snatched' for Ransom, Unharmed by Her Abductors

Oxon Hill, Md., Dec. 2.—(AP)—William B. Brown, father of 18-year-old Mary Brown, who reappeared at her home last night after a 30-hour absence, said today she was abducted by men who mistakenly thought he could pay ransom.

When his daughter, a business school student, convinced the men he was unable to pay any ransom, he said, they released her.

She arrived haggard and in tattered clothes at the Brown home last night, saying the men had freed her from an automobile a short distance from the farm house where she lives.

The girl was in fairly good condition, her father said. A doctor examined her and declared that she had not been harmed. She said she had twice become unconscious and thought she had been struck in the stomach.

Mary had been kept in a hut ever since she was abducted, she told the family.

Statement to Press
Brown gave this statement to the press this morning:

"My daughter came home last night about 10 o'clock.

"The kidnapers let her out about one-half mile down the road from the entrance to our farm. It was near Hanson Branch. She came home wearing only a slip. She said the men burned all her clothes.

"She spent a restless night. The doctor examined her and found she had not been harmed in any way by her experience.

"Mary said after she was shoved in the truck (described as the abductors' vehicle) she was driven at fast speed to a hut where she was kept on a mattress. A blindfold was put over her eyes after she was put in the truck but she was not gagged."

"There were three men in the truck when she was kidnapped. She said the men talked in whispers while she was kept in the hut.

Motive Was Ransom

"The motive for the kidnapping was ransom. When she convinced them that I was not in a position to pay any ransom they said they didn't want to have any more to do with her, and they brought her back in an automobile. They put her out on the side of the road, turned around and drove away before she could get the blindfold off."

The father is an employee of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving at nearby Washington.

When the girl tottered home last night and collapsed, a physician gave her a sedative and asked police not to question her until she had rested.

Today Major Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland state police, and other officers interviewed her at some length.

Police Press Search

Major Munshower said police would press their hunt for the three men Mary said figured in her abduction. Her father said she was able to add nothing to the description of the men given by Lucy, her younger sister, when the reported abduction occurred after the girls repulsed a "pick-up" offer on a lonely road near their home. Mary did say they were all "rough looking" and one wore a mustache.

The men did not say how much ransom they had hoped to get, said Brown.

Robert L. Manning, a family friend and former Washington detective who was in the home, told officers:

"Mary said three men had held her prisoner all night long. They had knocked her out and thrown her on a mattress. I asked her if she had been attacked and she said she had not been.

"She said she was blindfolded all the time they held her, but she knew one of the men had a mustache."

Not Taken Far Away

Manning added that the girl, who said she was seized while coming home from school Wednesday with her sister, expressed belief she had not been taken more than five miles away.

An automobile—not the truck which she was abducted—brought her to a field within a half mile of the Brown farm home about 10 o'clock last night. There he was let out.

She ran up a lane to the house, where Manning was keeping watch while members of the family rested after an anxious night and day.

"I was sitting at the telephone."

One vs. 185,000

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Gilbert Jordan, Enfield, Ill., rural mail carrier, came here yesterday to accept the blue ribbon he won in the national crocheting exhibition—the only man in the competition with 185,000 women. Jordan, veteran of the World War with seven months service in France, spoke politely but firmly how he, not Mrs. Jordan, did the family crocheting. He did the crocheting in the Jordan family, he explained, because his wife hasn't the patience.

When Jordan went to the crocheting exhibition and found people standing around fingering his prize-winning bedspread, he instructed officials to mark up the price of the spread 50 per cent.

He said some of his exhibits had won prizes at the White county, Ill. fair.

CHRISTMAS FUND OF GOODFELLOWS GROWING SLOWLY

Passed Century Mark To- day; Names of Needy Children Wanted

The Goodfellow fund for Christmas, 1938, this morning passed its first $100 mark and the indications are that the many Goodfellows of Dixon and vicinity are going to live up to their fine reputation of many years standing and see to it that the little folks of the unfortunate families of the community will have the happiest Christmas possible.

Remember that the money you donate to the Goodfellow fund reaches the little boys and girls who need it in its entirety. There is absolutely no over-head expense of any kind. All of the money will be used to buy the necessities and the little luxuries that are such an important part of a child's Christmas. Any funds that may be left after the Goodfellow Christmas bills are paid will be used throughout the year where it is most needed by youngsters and families who need and are entitled to help.

If you prefer to furnish your own Christmas to some worthy Dixon family—a very satisfactory way to help make your own Christmas a better one—the Goodfellow department at the Evening Telegraph can give you the name and address and all information on any size family you want, or as many as you are willing to take care of.

Childrens Names Wanted
The Goodfellow Club is now receiving the names of the children who will need help for a real Christmas. We urge that everyone who knows of such children should send in their names at once. We want the names, ages, sex and the names and addresses of parents or guardians. Please send in the names at once.

Nurse is Sentenced for Concealing Baby's Death

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Acquitted of a charge of involuntary manslaughter but convicted of concealing the death of her baby, Miss Mary Kathryn Reed, 23-year-old nurse, today was given a suspended sentence of a year's imprisonment by Federal Judge John Knight.

Payment of a $500 fine also was suspended by the court, who placed the young woman on probation for a year.

The comely defendant was tried by a jury of seven women and five men. The government had charged that she permitted the baby, born last August at the United States Veterans' facility at Batavia, N. Y., to die. She maintained the child was born dead.

New York Women Live in Terror of Being Apprehended With Pistols in Possession

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A woman wrote to a newspaper today saying she had a pistol inherited from a policeman father, and asking what she should do with it to avoid being thrown into jail and finger-printed as a criminal.

Her concern was over the Sullivan law, which forbids possession of a gun without police permission, and the recent unusual experience of two women who went through the police mill because of their innocent possession of lethal weapons.

The first incident involved a woman who found a pistol in a paper sack while riding on a bus. She handed it to a policeman and promptly was taken to jail.

The second concerned a Queens schoolmarm who was arrested while holding a pistol which she

STATE CONSERVATION OFFICIALS IN CITY THIS MORN

Hear Objections of Local Sportsmen to Seining in Rock River

Several officials of the state department of conservation from Springfield were in Dixon today attending a conference which was called for the purpose of discussing commercial seining of rough fish from Rock river in this vicinity, which was met with strong local opposition. Among those opposing the practice were President Louis Knief of the Dixon Conservation club, A. C. Dillmeyer of the Dixon Fishing club, Dement Schuler, representing land owners in the vicinity of the Nelson slough and Dr. F. L. Hamilton.

The conservation officials here included R. L. Spillman of Springfield, chief inspector; F. D. Hunt, Springfield, state fish culturist; Fred Goodwin, Quincy, supervisor of commercial contracts and Clyde Warner, chief investigator for the conservation department. President Knief of the Dixon Conservation club opposed issue of commercial seining licenses by the department of conservation for Rock river, the beauty spot of northern Illinois, and recognized as a state fish preserve. He contended that the practice of seining had failed to eliminate rough fish in the stream which were sought by fishermen, and argued that the seining operations were damaging to game fish.

Rough Fish Demanded
Commercialization of Rock river by dams and hydro plants was attributed as one of the chief causes for the lessening of the fish population of the stream by Dement Schuler, who joined in the opposition to commercial seining. He told the conservation department representatives that a demand existed for rough fish by fishermen, and cited the closing of the mouth of the Nelson slough last spring by a commercial seining crew as an instance of damage to the natural fish population of the stream. He further contended that game fish forage on the small rough fish.

Postmaster George Fruin made a plea for the preservation of the fish now native to Rock river and urged the continuation of the restocking program. The attitude of the average local fisherman, he stated, was one of preservation and propagation.

Dr. Hamilton in expressing his opposition to the practice of permitting commercial seining in Rock river, stated that in his opinion, the operation was harmful to other fish life in the stream and failed completely to lessen the population of rough fish.

Important Industry
F. D. Hunt, state fish culturist, stated that the purpose of issuing licenses permitting seining of rough fish from Rock river and other streams, was not intended to exterminate carp and other rough fish, but had become an important industry in Illinois. He attributed the shortage of certain species of fish, chiefly carp,

One Stomach—

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Mary Genova, 19, had a perfect right to complain of severe pains in her stomach, doctors decided, after X-rays revealed 31 full sized marbles. Mary explained she and a friend each had swallowed a number of marbles on a "dare" from neighborhood youths whose sled they wished to borrow.

Mary's girl friend has reported no ill effects.

Both enjoyed the sled ride very much, Mary added as an afterthought.

METHODIST PASTOR FOUND SLAIN NEAR HIS HOME IN OHIO

Bainbridge, Ohio, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Dr. Russell H. Bready, Methodist minister in this town of 800 and former mayor of Pontiac, Mich., was found slain here early today.

Shot in the temple, Dr. Bready's body was discovered crumpled on a sidewalk two blocks from the Methodist parsonage.

Sheriff Joseph Vincent ordered Dr. Bready's 29-year-old son, Robert, an accountant, detained for questioning.

Prosecuting Attorney Lester S. Reid announced that Robert Bready, 29, would be charged with slaying his father.

Reid's announcement was made at Chillicothe, where young Bready was taken for questioning after his 62-year-old father was found shot to death.

The prosecutor said, "I've definitely decided to charge him with homicide, but the degree has not been determined."

Reid said the charge would be filed tomorrow.

Marshall Earl Edington of Bainbridge said blood was found on the downstairs of the parsonage and in three upstairs rooms. An automatic pistol was found under a pillow in a bedroom.

Young Bready, when questioned by Marshall Edington and Deputy Sheriff Don Lowery, said he couldn't remember a thing since last night when he was sitting beside a radio drinking.

Lowery said a bottle of apple wine was found in the parsonage. Taken to view his father's body, the son said:

"Father's dead."

Young Bready returned to Bainbridge a year ago and told neighbors he had been fighting with the loyalist forces in Spain.

Dr. Bready, who took the Bainbridge pastorate about four years ago, had held pastorates in Cincinnati, Detroit, Pontiac, and Pioneer, Ohio. His wife died last July.

Besides his son, Robert, Dr. Bready was survived by another son, Russell, Jr., of Washington, D. C., and two daughters, Mrs. Stewart Watson of Detroit, and Mrs. W. W. Kunney of Warsaw, Ind.

Many Sign Petition For Loan Grants to North Shore Road

Waukegan, Ill., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Thirty-six hours after petitions had been circulated asking the federal government to grant a $3,000,000 loan to the North Shore railroad, 2,500 persons had signed them, Frank H. Just, Waukegan newspaper publisher said last night.

The petitions were given out after a meeting Tuesday night when 300 business and civic leaders from 25 communities along the north shore of Lake Michigan from Evanston to Milwaukee pledged support to the railroad in its efforts to obtain federal aid.

Just said the committee appointed at the meeting hopes to get 45,000 signers to the petition before December 9. "We are helping the railroad all we can in securing the loan which will be used in making improvements considered necessary to keep it in operation."

Speakers at the Tuesday meeting said the recent 52-day strike which tied up electric trains of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad had impaired business seriously in the cities it serves.

Financier's Projected Wooing of Pretty Loretta Young, Actress, Balked by Arrest

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A dapper young international financier's projected wooing of movie star Loretta Young was balked today by a mail fraud charge which Federal officials served on him as he left the liner Queen Mary.

The prisoner, booked as William P. Buckner, 31, of New York, was accused of milking Philippine Railroad bondholders of $100,000 by whirlwind intercontinental operations.

Airline employees were just picking up Buckner's baggage from the pier last night for a flight to Hollywood when Assistant U. S. Attorney William P. Maloney and several aides closed in on him.

EDNA MAE WEST SUFFERS BROKEN NECK IN CRASH

Tragedy Early this Morn- ing on State Route 88 South of Rock Falls

Miss Edna Mae West, 25, who had served as a maid at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hinkel, 407 Third street, Dixon, for over a year; Frank Brandt, 49, Rock Falls, and Michael L. (Dan) Moriarty, 38, of Sterling met almost instant death in an automobile accident on state route 88 about three miles south of Rock Falls shortly before 2 o'clock this morning, when an automobile driven by Daniel Carroll of Sterling, in which Miss West was a passenger, crashed into the rear of an auto driven by Brandt, which was parked on the shoulder while the driver and Moriarty, his companion, were replacing a flat tire.

According to Carroll, who escaped with a gash in his forehead, he and Miss West were returning northbound from a dance at Deer Grove, and as his car passed over the crest of a knoll he was partially blinded by the lights of a car which had stopped in the northbound traffic lane. These lights, he told officers, prevented him seeing the Brandt car parked on the shoulder and as he swung to the right to avoid a collision his car crashed into the rear of the disabled machine.

Pinned in Wreckage
Brandt was thrown heavily to the pavement while Moriarty was pinned between the two vehicles, his body being badly mangled. It was sometime before he could be released. Miss West was thrown heavily against the windshield of Carroll's car, her neck being broken.

The bodies were taken to Sterling mortuaries and Coroner Clarence M. Frey of Whiteside county scheduled inquests for 4 o'clock this afternoon. Sterling authorities were this afternoon investigating a report that a Miss Mira Bressler of that city, a passenger in one of the cars, had been injured.

Miss West, beloved by her employers, came to Dixon a few years ago from Kimball, S. D., and is survived by her mother, who lives in Omaha, Neb., and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meier, who reside south of Rock Falls.

German Ambassador to Washington Reports

Hamburg, Ger., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, German ambassador to Washington, arrived at Cuxhaven today en route to report to Chancellor Hitler on American reaction to recent Nazi anti-Semitism.

There was no official reception for him as the German liner Hansa docked this afternoon and the pier was blocked off so it was impossible for the public to approach him.

Dieckhoff left Cuxhaven immediately by train for Berlin. He was summoned home November 18 by Hitler for a report on what was termed by the official German news agency President Roosevelt's "singular attitude" after the United States Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson was called back to Washington from Berlin.

Not on Docket

London, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A disappointed litigant stood up today in the august court of appeals and bombarded two bewigged lord justices with tomatoes.

He missed, but the justices, Sir Charles Clauson and Sir Rayner Goddard, gave him six weeks in prison for gross contempt of court.

Earlier in the morning the litigant, Frank Harrison, had been refused an appeal for a new trial in a minor county court.

He departed muttering. After a while he returned, his coat bulging strangely.

As the lord justices arose for luncheon, Harrison stood up in the back of the court room and shouted, "I want justice!"

Then he began pulling tomatoes from under his coat and opened fire.

MAYOR-FOR-A-DAY ELECTED BY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Four Commissioners Also Named to Rule City on December 10

Paul Marth, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Marth of 421 Ottawa avenue, is today mayor-elect of Dixon.

Young Marth was chosen by a vote of the high school students in the general elections held this morning, and as part of the annual project of the civics classes, he will act as chief city official on Saturday, Dec. 10. Marth defeated Louis Bevilacqua, Jr., who was named as his opponent in the primaries held last Tuesday.

Serving with the mayor will be four city commissioners, also elected today. In the order of the number of votes polled, they are: Robert Hofmann, Evelyn Kennedy, Arnold Spangler, and Betty Allen. Other names on the ballot for the office of commissioner were Caryl Crawford, Gerry Glannon, Betty Jane Heck and John Mensch.

To Appoint Officers

The "mayor for a day" will meet soon with his commissioners to appoint library board members, chief of police, policemen, fire chief, firemen, hospital board members, street commissioners and park district commissioners.

Election polls were located in the students' home rooms this morning and were opened at 8:10 A. M. It is reported that 730 votes were cast.

These elections are held each year as part of the program of Calvin Castle and Miss M. E. Scott, members of the high school faculty. Their purpose is to acquaint the citizens of tomorrow with the details of city government and the responsibility of successful management.

The spirit of campaign was carried out in adult style with posters, election promises and speeches before the general assembly.

The student governing body will meet with the city council on Friday night, Dec. 8 at which time they will be awarded their badges of office to make them recognized bearers of the keys of the city on Saturday.

DIES SAYS GROUP HAS FORCED REDS TO LOOSEN GRASP

Asserts Power Over the Unions Weakened by "Exposure"

Washington, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Rep. Dies (D-Tex.) asserted today that Communists had been forced to "loosen their hold" on American labor unions because of their "exposure" by the house committee on un-American activities.

Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, told the committee yesterday that Communists were active in all labor organizations, including both the American Federation of Labor and the C. I. O.

Martin's union is one of the largest in the C. I. O. He said he had told John L. Lewis, C. I. O. president, that some of the organization's leaders who since have been removed were "nothing but stooges for the Communist party and threaten to destroy the C. I. O."

Summs Up Testimony
Summing up the testimony of the U. A. W. A. executive and other witnesses who have discussed Communism in the labor movement, Dies said:

"I think this exposure of Communists is going to result in responsible labor leaders' being forced to clean them up. There is a tremendous sentiment in the labor movement to take them out of strategic positions where their influence won't be felt."

The justice department is studying seriously a request for prosecution of the Communist party, the German-American Bund and some other organizations for failing to register as agents of foreign principals.

Dies recently asked the state department that such action be taken. Dies, chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, asserted that evidence in the Communists' hands is an agent of the Comintern headquarters at Moscow.

Send Letters to Cummings

In the absence of Secretary of State Hull, Undersecretary Sumner Welles forwarded Dies' letter to Attorney General Cummings who referred it today to Brian McMahon, chief of the justice department's

SMALLER, MORE MOBILE INFANTRY IS PLANNED

War Department Approves Motorized and Better Equipped Units

Washington, Dec. 2—(AP)—A new streamlined infantry regiment, smaller but far more mobile and harder hitting than either its World War counterpart or the regiment of today, has received war department approval.

Moving by motor truck and armed with semi-automatic rifles, it is intended to become a major unit in the high speed army on wheels which is being developed.

While officials made public details of these plans today, Secretary Woodring reported to President Roosevelt that national defense requirements may hasten construction of a third and possibly larger set of locks for the Panama Canal.

His report followed closely his recommendation to Roosevelt that the canal be made impregnable.

Current surveys, which will be speeded up, contemplate new facilities costing $150,000,000 or more, to be ready about 1960.

Year of Field Tests

Officials who told of the new infantry plans said three of the new regiments will undergo field tests for a year in Texas as a part of a projected smaller infantry division.

At full war strength, the new unit has but 2,411 officers and men, contracted with the World War's 3,742 and the present 3,009.

Whereas the 1917-18 regiment was armed with 3,200 Springfield, single shot rifles, and the existing regiment has 1,852 such weapons, the new organization will have 1,492 semi-automatic rifles, giving triple fire power. It also will have heavier and more numerous machine guns and auxiliary weapons.

The horse and mule have been marked for eventual complete discard. The World War regiment had 369 animals while the present full strength outfit has 457. The new unit will depend on 141 motor vehicles of various types for movement of men and material.

Squads Increased

Squads have been increased from eight to twelve men. Until the Garand semi-automatic shoulder rifles are ready in greater quantities, each squad will have a Browning machine gun. The army now has 11,000 of the new semi-automatics, but production has 90 letters are up. They fire eight rounds per reloading.

In his report to President Woodring said that exclusive of the cost of fortifications and garrisons, the Panama Canal and its varied enterprises showed a net revenue of $14,734,516 in the fiscal year ended June 30, representing a 2.90 per cent return on an investment of $507,666,409.

Maritime traffic increased over the previous 12 months. Altogether 5,524 ocean-going vessels made the transit of the 50-mile waterway between the Atlantic and Pacific, and paid $23,169,889 in tolls.

Barge Lines Pay
"Most satisfactory results were achieved," Woodring said, by the Inland Waterways Corporation, which operates barge lines on the Mississippi, Missouri, Illinois and Warrior rivers. Net revenues increased 300 per cent over the previous year, he reported.

The corporation showed $605,419 net income, compared with $170,149 the previous fiscal period. It undertook and has nearly completed a $3,200,000 improvement program, financed from its own funds. Its reserve fund increased to $4,166,354.

Alabama farmers sold $280,936 worth of produce on the 15 curb markets operating in the state during nine months of 1938.

New one-piece telephones are being manufactured in mass production in India to replace the old two-piece office models.

At formal Japanese dinners, sweets are served first, and sour pickles last.

Treasury Will Borrow $1,641,613,750 Soon

Washington, Dec. 2—(AP)—The treasury made preliminary announcement today of terms of its December $1,641,613,750 financing.

To raise $700,000,000 of cash for operating expenses, the treasury will sell $400,000,000 of 2 1/2 percent long term bonds and $300,000,000 five-year notes. The maturity dates of the bond and the interest rate of the note will be made public Monday.

To refund $941,613,750 or 1 1/2 percent notes maturing March 15, the treasury will offer holders an exchange of either the same types of bonds and notes to be sold for cash or a shorter term bond bearing two percent interest.

The 2 1/2 percent interest rate on the long-term bond offering indicated it would not mature for at least 15 years, since the treasury sold 12 to 14-year bonds bearing 2 1/2 per cent only three months ago.

Fences of Cemeteries of German Jews Seized

Berlin, Dec. 2—(AP)—The remaining Jewish publication in Germany, Juedisches Nachrichtenblatt, carried an appeal today that iron fences enclosing Jewish burial plots be removed "as a great project for beautifying Jewish graves is under way."

Jews knew the notice, by the community executive council, was compulsory, for it continued: "Inasmuch as the German reich's supply of scrap iron must be increased we want voluntarily to make this material available for reutilization."

This morning most of the fences were gone from the big cemetery, Weissensee.

Nazis in one locality, meanwhile, pressed their anti-Semitic actions to include Germans friendly to Jews. Placards, lettered "Judenknecht" or Jews' lackey or hireling were tacked to stores and homes of those whom the Ullm newspaper called "noxious enemies of the common weal."

TULAREMIA WARNING

East St. Louis—(AP)—With 16 persons reported ill here of tularemia or rabbit fever, Dr. H. C. Farrier, district medical director, issued a warning today urging hunters to avoid handling sickly rabbits.

Litchfield reported three additional cases, Carbondale two and Harrisburg one.

Dr. Farrier said he believed some here had been infected by quail or pheasants, also.

CHICAGO YOUTH FULL FLEDGED HERDSMAN NOW

17-Year-Old Boy Has Learned Business and Has Job

Chicago, Dec. 2—(AP)—A slender 17-year-old herdsman from "wide open spaces" of Chicago's "back o' the yards" neighborhood proudly patrolled a section of the cattle stalls at the International Livestock Exposition today, holding his first regular job in the big show.

Charles "Chuck" Gilmartin listened in embarrassed silence as Harold Thiemann of Lewis Thiemann & Sons, Concordia, Mo., cattle breeders, told the story of the city boy's development into a full-fledged herdsman.

Chuck always lived within two blocks of the Union Stockyards. He liked livestock and made it a point to be "sick" and absent from school during exposition week.

Thiemann said Chuck showed up one morning in 1933 while the Thiemann herd of Polled Shorthorn cattle were being washed. He helped with the job and has aided them at every show for four years.

Fast Thinking

A bit of fast thinking May 19, 1934, coupled with a bit of dangerous action also helped.

Homer Thiemann, another member of the firm, was in charge of a select shipment of 11 cattle, three bulls and eight cows, which was to be shipped to Australia for breeding purposes. The herd was housed temporarily in the old International Amphitheatre. Homer was asleep in the nearby Stockyards Inn.

Clanging fire alarms awakened him. Then a scared small boy—Chuck—barged into his room with the word the entire yards were ablaze and the amphitheatre was burning.

Chuck and Thiemann led the frightened cattle from the blazing structure through a narrow side door and an alley, but not until one of the prize bulls had been singed badly and the whole herd well-smoked.

Learned Business

The Thiemanns then invited the lad to learn the business of herdsman and he spent several summers on the Thiemann farm near Concordia. Last year he was permitted to make a portion of the state fair circuit with the Thiemann herds.

Only a portion, however, because school bells interrupted and Chuck hastened back to Chicago where he is a junior in De LaSalle high school. He said he was going to finish school, but got his start at his life's ambition, a herdsman, at this show. He is patrolling the alleys for the Percy Merediths herds of Maple Park, Ill.

Union Takes "Holiday" To Demonstrate Power

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 2—(AP)—Work on Macon county's new courthouse and two county road projects was halted yesterday by a "labor holiday."

G. E. Good of Springfield, business agent of the International Union of Operating Engineers, said the "holiday" was called for "a demonstration of union strength."

The men involved are members of local 965 at Springfield which serves 15 counties, Good said. The "holiday" coincided with a call to help picket a Sangamon river levee project near Havana.

AMERICANISM IS THEME OF TALKS

Civic Meeting Held at Elks Club Wednesday Eve; 150 Present

Major L. N. Bittinger, commandant at the Onarga Military academy and senior vice commander of the Department of Illinois American Legion, delivered the address at the Americanism banquet at the Elks club last evening. There were 150 in attendance who enjoyed the sumptuous roast turkey feast. The dining room was specially decorated in national colors with a miniature American flag at each plate. The banquet was served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Elks.

Exalted Ruler William Slothover presented Commander J. M. Brady of Dixon post, No. 12, American Legion, who in turn introduced Oscar Berga of Amboy, commander of the county Legion organization. The latter presented the guest speaker of the evening. Seated at the speaker's table was Dixon's sole surviving Civil War veteran, John "Dad" Ford.

Youth Program

The speaker referred several times to the youth program of the Legion as a means of preserving the ideals of Americanism. He strongly lauded the Big Buddy Boys' club movement which gained its origin in Dixon post and which he said, "was sweeping every post in Illinois." He cited the fact that the Legion when organized undertook the rehabilitation of those unfortunate who were left crippled from the World War and urged the cooperation of the citizens of the country in bringing about the successful rehabilitation of the youth of America.

Major Bittinger referred to a Black Shirt movement which had sprung up in the southwest among youth of high school age, whom he called "young fascists."

"We as American citizens must watch our citizenship very carefully or face the break down of our churches, our schools and our homes. These foreign isms can thrive only where there is ignorance. A laboratory of citizenship, such as is made possible by the Boys state at Springfield, and the rehabilitation of both boys and girls through the youth building program of the American Legion, with the help and cooperation which is necessary for success are essential factors in the elimination of treacherous agencies within our democracy," he speaker concluded.

Experiment in Relief Administration Worked

Chicago, Dec. 2—(AP)—A three months' experiment to determine the ideal relief setup, Administrator Leo M. Lyons said last night, disclosed that "adequate administrative work more than pays for itself in relief savings."

He said the experiment conducted from February to April in the Canal district office showed a decrease of its case load from 3,729 to 3,377 or by 10 per cent. Cases increased from 3,696 to 4,103, or 11 per cent during the same period in districts where comparisons were made, Lyons said.

The experiment was made at the suggestion of Governor Horner's council on unemployment to measure the value of intensive administrative work in furnishing relief.

Instead of importing khaki dye from Germany for military uniforms, Japan is now making its own dye, which, officials say, is of superior quality.

Spanish Rebels Take Last Shot at Yankees

La Tour de Carol, France (at the Spanish Frontier), Dec. 2—(AP)—The Spanish insurgent airforce, by chance or design, today took a parting shot at the government's Lincoln-Washington battalion by bombing a railway at the Franco-Spanish frontier as more than 300 demobilized American volunteers left Spain.

Five insurgent planes plunged 18 bombs on the railway station of Alp, shortly after the Americans had crossed into France.

This was the largest exodus of American fighters since the Barcelona government decided to release all foreigners in its international brigades.

The volunteers, standing in safety on the railway station platform of this French border town, watched the bombs fall a few hundred yards away.

Japan's Budget Biggest in History of Country

Tokyo, Dec. 2—(AP)—Japan's 1939-1940 budget, the largest in the empire's history, was approved by the cabinet today. It does not include China War expenditures, which will be met by supplementary appropriations.

The budget totalled 3,694,752,000 yen (about $997,583,000). This was about 200,000,000 yen lower than the figure submitted by the finance ministry, but still was 180,000,000 yen ($48,000,000) above last year's budget.

Domestically, the Japanese news agency, predicted the war appropriations would bring the total expenditures for the year to five billion yen (about $1,350,000,000).

The budget now has to be submitted to parliament, which will meet late this month.

Snyder-McDonald Wedding Solemnized In 1880

First Glimpse of Train at Age of Five Years Well Remembered by Bridegroom.

Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Snyder of 417 East Third will celebrate the fifty-eighth anniversary of their marriage. They were married here, Dec. 5, 1880, at the rectory of St. Patrick's Catholic church, with the Rev. Father Hodnett officiating.

His first glimpse of a train is, perhaps, the most deeply etched mental picture Mr. Snyder retains of the journey he made westward at the age of five, accompanying his parents, William H. and Mary Eleanor (Shaffer) Snyder, his sister and three brothers. Two older sons had preceded the family to Dixon.

The family left Mr. Snyder's birthplace, Somerset, Pa., for Dixon in '84, traveling from Somerset to Latrobe, Pa., by covered wagon. At Latrobe, the Snyders boarded a train—the first some of them had ever seen. And Mr. Snyder laughingly recalls hearing his mother exclaim: "My, do we have to get on that thing?" when she saw the unfamiliar vehicle pulling in at the station.

Upon arriving here, the father obtained employment in the flour mills. In the spring of 1872, Mr. Snyder began working at the flax factory, located in the old stone building, which still stands west of the wire screen. Heavy bagging for baling cotton was woven at the factory, and Mr. Snyder's task was to keep the spools on the creels. For the past 12 years, he has been employed as custodian at the Elks club.

Mrs. Snyder, the former Miss Celia McDonald, was born Sept. 14, 1860, at Franklin Grove, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry McDonald. For about 35 years, her father was switchman at the Northwestern depot in Dixon.

No formal celebration of the anniversary has been planned for Monday, as Mrs. Snyder has never recovered entirely from the effects of injuries she sustained in a fall about 15 months ago. The couple have only one child, Jacob A. Snyder, who with his family resides with his parents on Third street.

BRIDGE HOSTESS

Mrs. George McGraham was a bridge hostess of Wednesday evening, entertaining for her fortnightly contract group. Three tables were in play, and at the close of the evening, Mrs. Thomas Erwin and Mrs. H. E. Marselus received score favors.

Mrs. McGraham's guests numbered Mesdames Gus Wimpler, Lex Hartzell, Joseph Miller, Charles Roudy, Thomas Erwin, Orville Smith, Russell Byers, M. E. Potter, Carl Goff, Carl Buchner, J. B. J. Frazer, and H. E. Marselus.

Mrs. Marselus is to entertain next.

FIRST YEAR

Frances Faye Ridolph, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Ridolph, 910 Highland avenue, will be celebrating her first birthday anniversary tomorrow at the home of her paternal grandparents, the Michael Ridolphs, in DeKalb. The J. V. Ridolphs and their two daughters, Frances Faye and Mary Eileen, will leave for DeKalb tomorrow afternoon and remain until Sunday evening.

AMBOY CLUB PLANS CHRISTMAS PARTY

Miss Ethel Ross, Miss Bachman, Miss Catherine Halligan, and Mrs. James Thompson were receiving prizes at the close of play.

DIXON WA-TAN-YANS HAVE DINNER MEETING

Miss Smallwood is Bride of Neil D. Willstead in Iowa

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smallwood of Harmon announce the marriage of their only daughter, Alice Marie, to Neil D. Willstead of Ohio, third son of the Harry Willsteads who reside near Harmon, yesterday at the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal church in Clinton, Ia. The Rev. J. B. Ackman read the double ring ceremony.

The couple were attended by the bride's cousin, Miss Gertrude Geldean and Roger Hedrick, both of Sterling. The bride wore teal blue with brown accessories, and Miss Geldean chose black accessories for her gray ensemble. Mr. Willstead and his bride left last evening for Chicago, en route east on a wedding trip. After their return, they will be at home on a farm four miles south of Harmon.

The bride is a graduate of Dixon high school, and is well-known here. Since her graduation, she has been employed at her parents' hardware store at Harmon. Mr. Willstead, who was graduated from Amboy high school, has been farming near Ohio.

Jacob H. Huyett Reaches 88th Year

Jacob H. Huyett, who has been a resident of Lee county since 1876, quietly celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday anniversary yesterday at his home on South Galena avenue. On Sept. 21, Mr. and Mrs. Huyett observed their sixty-seventh wedding anniversary.

Mr. Huyett was born Dec. 1, 1850, in Pennsylvania, a son of John and Elizabeth (Hain) Huyett. He has one brother and a sister, Henry Huyett of Wernersville, Pa., and Mrs. Kate Hain of Redding.

TO CALIFORNIA

Miss Mary Bales, who joined a Notre Dame-to-California tour last Sunday morning in Chicago, was scheduled to arrive in California yesterday. The tour itinerary included stops at New Orleans and points in Mexico enroute west.

Miss Bales is due home next Wednesday. During her absence, Mrs. Elmer Schilling is acting as office assistant for Dr. W. A. McNichols.

JOLLY CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Feirich of Nelson entertained last evening for members of the Jolly club. Progressive 500 was the evening's pastime, and score favors were won by Mrs. Glen Burkett, Melvin Kin, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Boos.

In two weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Boos will be entertaining.

OXFORD CLUB

Attorney Elwin Wadsworth is to be guest speaker at Sunday evening's meeting of the Oxford club at the Methodist Episcopal church. Five o'clock tea will precede the devotional service and program. Special music will be furnished by Mrs. I. B. Potter and Miss Marie Worley.

NELSON UNIT

Members of the Nelson Home Bureau unit have planned an all day meeting for Tuesday at the home of Mrs. John Emmitt. A scramble luncheon will be followed by a Christmas grab bag. Those attending will be asked to make suggestions for home made gifts.

WEEKEND VISIT

The Misses Mary Alice Buchanan and Lucille Johnson will be going to Morrison this evening to spend the weekend with Mrs. Robert Tracy. Their hostess is the former Miss Ruth Kerz, who has charge of the remedial room at the new Lincoln school.

DIXON CIRCLE

Dixon circle, No. 73, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, will meet in the G. A. R. hall at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening for election of officers.

Donald L. Breed To Speak at Mt. Morris Meeting

Donald L. Breed of Freeport, editor and publisher of the Freeport Journal-Standard, is to be guest speaker at the fourth annual Gentlemen's Night dinner of the Mt. Morris Woman's club on Monday evening. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock at the Blackhawk Grange hall, east of Mt. Morris, and reservations must be made with Mrs. O. A. Hanke, not later than this evening.

"Spasms of the Iams" is to be the subject of Mr. Breed's talk, in which he will discuss America's relationship with other nations. Having traveled extensively through Europe as a newspaper writer and served as commercial attaché at the American embassy in Berlin for three years, the publisher is well qualified to present the subject of international relations.

Problems arising today because so many nations are accepting philosophies of government running counter to that of the United States, will be discussed, and suggestions offered on methods for maintaining this country's balance in a changing world.

Owing to a previous engagement, Mrs. Breed will be unable to accompany her husband to Mt. Morris, but the speaker expects to bring his mother.

District Board of Women's Clubs to Meet at Oregon

The second quarterly meeting of the Thirteenth district board, Federated Women's clubs, is scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 8, in Oregon. The sessions will open at 10 A. M. at the Lutheran church, with Mrs. Hugh Allen of Mt. Morris, the district president, presiding.

A special program has been arranged, to be featured by reports of club presidents. Mrs. L. C. Street will speak for the Dixon Woman's club. Luncheon will be served downtown.

Representing the local club at the meeting will be Mrs. L. N. Deutsch, first vice president of the district federation; Mrs. Earl Auman, advertising chairman; Mrs. Arthur Bowers, motion picture chairman; Mrs. L. L. McGinnis, public welfare chairman; and Mrs. Street.

The third quarterly meeting will be held at Lanark on March 16, 1939, and the final session has been planned for June 8 at Orangeville.

Hostess Trio Plans Neighborhood Fete For a Recent Bride

Mrs. George Curtis, Jr., the former Miss Vivian Coakley, was meeting neighbors who have known Mr. Curtis since his childhood at a post-nuptial party given last evening by a hostess trio composed of Mrs. A. L. Carr, Mrs. O. E. Strook, and Mrs. O. H. Doctor. Sixteen guests were invited to the Carr home on North Jefferson for the affair.

Tables were made up for Chinese checkers, with Mrs. Arthur Sheffield and Mrs. George Curtis, Sr., receiving prizes for their efforts. In behalf of the guests, Mrs. Strook presented the honoree with a walnut occasional chair. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

READING CLUB

Mrs. C. B. Morrison, 122 Deament avenue, will be hostess to members of the Peoria Avenue Reading club Monday afternoon. The program is to open at 2:30 o'clock.

CHORUS REHEARSAL

Members of the Dixon Woman's club chorus will meet for practice at 1:15 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Sunday school room at St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Waukegan Has Initial Auto Fatality of Year

Waukegan, Ill., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Waukegan's record of not having an automobile traffic fatality in 1938 was marred today.

Mrs. Grace Miller, 30, of Waukegan, died this morning at St. Therese hospital from injuries suffered last night when the car in which she was riding crashed into a parked trailer truck.

Delbert J. Williams, 37, first-class musician at the Great Lakes naval training station, driver of the automobile, was injured seriously. He was taken to the naval training hospital.

Police said Waukegan had been the largest city in Illinois without a traffic fatality this year.

PROBLEM AT LEAST RECOGNIZED

Senator Burke of Nebraska warns the administration that the crop control farm act had better be revised immediately—or else. In the same interview he says: "I don't pretend to know the answer to the farm problems." This is admirable candor. Coincidentally with Mr. Burke's warning, Secretary Wallace is quoted as saying that next year's planting of cotton should be about the same number of acres as this year. With a good growing season, then, the production next fall will be about 10 million bales. It is estimated that surplus cotton in this country next spring will be about 14 million bales. Adding next season's 10 million bales to the carryover of 14 million bales, there is in sight a supply of something less than 24 million bales. That is more than a surplus. It amounts to a headache.

Senator Burke's warning, however was made with the corn belt in mind. He says the agrarians are about to revolt openly.

The senator from Nebraska is perhaps wiser than he knew when he stated that he doesn't pretend to know the answer. The problem in his mind, it seems, is not merely to help the farmer, but to discover a method of helping him. Temporary expedients only plunge the country deeper into the mire.

The farm problem is not new. We have pointed out in this column how a farm problem set in motion a train of events that plunged the Roman republic into dictatorship and then monarchicalism in less than a generation, and how throughout the whole process of national decadence the farmer fared worse and worse. Feudalism and serfdom failed to help in the centuries that followed.

It would be a striking example of the perversity of things in general if, after concentrating most of its efforts on restrictions, subsidies and the like, the New Deal should unknowingly solve the farmer's problems indirectly by an attack upon some other apparent evil.

REMEMBER MR. BUCK PRIVATE

While the country is in a throes of preparing for national defense we arise to remark that one of the persons not to be forgotten is Mr. Buck Private. We are getting a great deal of information on the mobilization of factory facilities, the number of airplanes and battleships that might be needed, and we are developing excellent weapons. To date, however, the buck private seems to be the forgotten man.

The planners ought to be reminded that no infantryman can approach the enemy with the proper sang froid or verve and dash if his trousers resemble something he had inherited from his larger brother and if the tails of his blouse ride in the middle of his back. How is the man defending a trench to feel at ease with the guilty knowledge that his shirt has the bar sinister of cotton, or perhaps shoddy, on its escutcheon?

There were certain privates in the last war who suffered a positive inferiority complex after comparing their own raiment with that worn by officers and officers' orderlies. It was generally believed among some of them that such men were patterned after better architectural lines, which accounted for the better fit of their uniforms.

Perhaps the next war, if it comes, will find a style of hats different from the rain-in-the-face chapeau that adorned the head of the doughboy in the A. E. F. This cunning little trick collected rain like a sponge, and the funnel effect of the raincoat collar permitted said rain to run down the neck. Wearing such haberdashery while riding a razor-backed artillery horse thirty miles in a dashing rain usually got the soldier into a frame of mind indifferent to victory or defeat; not even dreading death in any form if it only would come.

If it is true that an army marches on its stomach, it is equally true that it marches in its clothes, and there is no reason why an army representing the United States should wear garments apparently taken from scarecrows.

WHILE WE'RE HATING—

It is possible that we had best for the time being look in another direction to take our minds off the brutalities committed against Jews in Germany. We can't do anything about it. Even if we were tempted to take direct action we could not help. Even the Jews, probably, would advise against such a course.

As a counter-irritant let us look toward China. It is bad for the Japs to invade an unoffending neighbor on the pretense of preventing the rise of bolshevism. It is bad enough for them to perpetrate atrocities compared with which even the nazi cruelties against Jews are insignificant. It is bad enough for the Japs to slay non-combatants wantonly, and to destroy buildings, works of art and educational institutions. But it is even worse for the Japanese to undertake to break down the moral resistance of the Chinese by feeding them opium, heroin and other drugs. The "feeding" is done by using scientific means to reduce the price of the drugs and making them readily available to all applicants in conquered areas.

The Chinese have had drug trouble for centuries, and part of the time have sought by legal means to stamp out the habit. Immediately before the latest Japanese incursion the Chinese government had ordered all Chinese to quit the habit within a certain time or face the death penalty. The measure was, in a sense, a matter of preparedness for the impending struggle against Japan. It was known through experience that a drugged nation can not defend itself.

If it is bad for the Chinese to become a nation of dope addicts, it is good for the Japs who hope to conquer them. As far as we know, the Japs are the first invaders guilty of the use of drugs as a weapon.

COUNTRYSIDE THIEVING

Raids by truck-operating thieves on rural chicken coops and pig pens have been causing greater loss than bank robberies in Illinois, according to Representative F. W. Lewis of Robinson, a member of the uniform motor vehicle laws commission. The commission has decided that since police radio broadcasting has driven many thieves out of the cities, it is now time to drive them out of the rural sections as well.

The commission proposes to remedy the situation by causing a special number and the name and address of the owner to be painted upon the sides of each truck operating in Illinois. A bill providing for this requirement will be introduced in the legislature. Also, each trucker with a load

Washington — Friends of the President have said much among themselves about the political and business activity of his sons, but only one of them had the courage to say it to his face.

The plain talker was Maury Maverick, lame-duck liberal leader of the House, and the subject of his blunt lecture was Elliott Roosevelt, the President's second son and budding Texas radio magnate. Last spring Elliott came under fire in Houston for attempting to stick his nose into local affairs and for airing distinctly anti-New Deal views.

Maverick, in whose veins runs the blood of an Alamo defender, did not in so many words tell Roosevelt his son was a meddling carpet-bagger, but he implied it very strongly.

He flatly accused Elliott of aiding Maverick's successful anti-administration opponent, Paul J. Kilday, by employing Kilday's campaign manager as an announcer in one of his radio stations. Maverick also said Elliott was responsible for the mysterious appearance of the hostile campaign manager on the President's special train when he crossed Texas last summer.

Maverick had been invited to accompany Roosevelt that day as an electioneering boost. At one of the wayside stops, Roosevelt referred to him as my "good friend Maury."

While this was going on at the rear end of the train, up in front, or in the lounge car, sat the campaign manager of Maverick's opponent. Exactly what he had up his sleeve was never learned because Maverick got wind of his presence and raised a shindy. Finally White House Secretary Marvin McIntyre warned the rival politicians not to pull anything or a formal statement would be issued that he had got on the train unasked.

Apparently that silenced him, for nothing more was heard from him during the trip.

But it didn't silence Maverick. When he returned to Washington after the November 8 election he bluntly advised the President to give Elliott a "good bawling out for the way he is carrying on."

Roosevelt tried to excuse his son on the ground that he was "young and inexperienced."

"I don't think that justifies him," Maverick retorted. "I've got a 17-year-old boy who has better sense than that. Your friends in Texas have enough to do waging your fight against reactionary enemies without having your son put in his car to help them."

"You would be doing Elliott and yourself both a big service if you would call him in and tell him a few facts of life. That young man seems to have forgotten who he is and who his father is, and who ought to remind him."

Judicial Constitutional

The thousands homeward bound by automobile and bus along Massachusetts avenue, at the end of a day's work, unknowingly pass a supreme court justice taking his daily constitutional.

Rain or shine, cold or hot, Justice Harlan F. Stone can be seen late every afternoon, walking stick in hand, striding briskly up the avenue above Waterside Drive. Stone lives on Wyoming avenue, near Rock Creek park. He walks three blocks to Massachusetts, turns west, climbs up the long hill past the British, Brazilian and German embassies, and on to Observatory Circle.

Then returns and comes back again. He likes this route because there are few cross streets, and because the hill provides a good weight-reducing exercise. The round-trip is about two miles.

Lady Astor's Picture

Hidden away in a basement room of the State Capitol in Richmond is a closely-guarded secret that is causing much wrinkling of brows among the few Virginians in the know.

Cause of their worry is a portrait of Lady Nancy Astor (nee Langhorne), Virginia-born member of the British parliament and leader of the pro-Nazi Cliveden set that plays a powerful behind-the-scenes role in shaping the policies of the Chamberlain government.

The painting was bought with a fund raised several years ago by friends of the Astors. Among the contributors was the then Governor George C. Peery. The general assembly was to accept the portrait for the gallery of famous Virginians, but the English artist commissioned to do the painting did not finish it in time for presentation during Peery's term.

James Price, his successor, is a plain-talking governor, and the Astorites are afraid he will kick up a rumpus if they attempt to hang the portrait with those of Washington, Jefferson, Patrick Henry Robert E. Lee and other great Virginians. So they are keeping it hidden in the capitol basement while they try to figure out a way to wangle it into the gallery without a public uproar.

Rare Relative

A South Carolina newspaper editor read an article in the current issue of Harper's Magazine on life in the cotton belt, entitled "Grand mother Smith's Plantation." Author of the piece is John A. Rice, college professor and nephew of Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith.

"Well," exclaimed the editor, this is a surprise. Old Cotton Ed actually has a relative who isn't on the government payroll."

Mall Bag

R. P. M., Rochester, N. Y.—There was no "inside story" in the appointment of John L. Lewis to accompany Roosevelt that day as an electioneering boost. At one of the wayside stops, Roosevelt referred to him as my "good friend Maury."

While this was going on at the rear end of the train, up in front, or in the lounge car, sat the campaign manager of Maverick's opponent. Exactly what he had up his sleeve was never learned because Maverick got wind of his presence and raised a shindy. Finally White House Secretary Marvin McIntyre warned the rival politicians not to pull anything or a formal statement would be issued that he had got on the train unasked.

Apparently that silenced him, for nothing more was heard from him during the trip.

But it didn't silence Maverick. When he returned to Washington after the November 8 election he bluntly advised the President to give Elliott a "good bawling out for the way he is carrying on."

Roosevelt tried to excuse his son on the ground that he was "young and inexperienced."

"I don't think that justifies him," Maverick retorted. "I've got a 17-year-old boy who has better sense than that. Your friends in Texas have enough to do waging your fight against reactionary enemies without having your son put in his car to help them."

"You would be doing Elliott and yourself both a big service if you would call him in and tell him a few facts of life. That young man seems to have forgotten who he is and who his father is, and who ought to remind him."

Judicial Constitutional

Rain or shine, cold or hot, Justice Harlan F. Stone can be seen late every afternoon, walking stick in hand, striding briskly up the avenue above Waterside Drive. Stone lives on Wyoming avenue, near Rock Creek park. He walks three blocks to Massachusetts, turns west, climbs up the long hill past the British, Brazilian and German embassies, and on to Observatory Circle.

Then returns and comes back again. He likes this route because there are few cross streets, and because the hill provides a good weight-reducing exercise. The round-trip is about two miles.

German Paper Assails Nazis

A German editorial was recently published in the New Yorkers STAATS-ZEITUNG UND HEROLD, formally abandoning as "false" any hope it has held out to its German-language readers of "decency" from the leaders now in power in Germany.

The editorial separated the Nazi leaders from the body of the German people, and denounced these leaders as "fanatics unworthy to be called Germans." It closed with the hope that the German people may some day be freed from them.

The STAATS-ZEITUNG had previously held a "neutral" editorial policy regarding the Hitler regime.

In translation from the German, verified with the STAATS-ZEITUNG, the text of the editorial, called "Cold Terror," follows:

"The terrible events of the last five days can hardly be erased from the minds of mankind. The hopes we had, often against our better judgment, have proved themselves to be false. The excesses of the mob, destroying property, maltreating people, are now being followed up by a cold terror which, in its consequences, will be much more horrible than the brutal acts themselves, committed under the pretense and official palliation of 'spontaneous reaction'."

"We do not believe that the German people, that our relatives and dear friends, are participating in the horror mankind has witnessed. We condemn the murder act in Paris, as we are condemning all violence, all excesses. Because we believe in the inherent decency of the German people, we herewith protest against the dark powers that use this murder as a welcome excuse to let loose the lowest instincts against defenseless people, trying to cover up these wanton acts with phrases like indignation of the people, which bear the stamp of the Ministry of Propaganda."

"We know that the German-Americans condemn this mob rule. We all have parents, brothers, sisters and other relatives in the old country. We do not wish to part with fond memories we all dearly cherish in our hearts and we do not want them to be trodden upon and to be soiled by elements unworthy of being called Germans. And therefore, in the names of our dear ones, do we protest against desecration of the German through fanatics in the ranks of the party in power who are trying to drag a great people into the mire of their sadistic looniness."

"We believe in humanity, in decency, in the noble character of our dear ones in Germany as we believe in the decency of the German people. Could it be otherwise?"

"We deeply love all that is beautiful, that lives forever in our hearts and that despite all shame and disgrace of this hour will continue to live."

"We hope fervently, through our belief in the German people, for the dawn of a better day which will put an end to all mental agony."

SLIGHT MISTAKE

Waltham, Mass.—(AP)—The women who judged a baby show at Immanuel Methodist church picked the "best all around boy," and then found out "he" was a girl—Carol Ann Van Wart.

But Carol Ann got a prize just the same. She was ruled the child with the "most personality."

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

A fascinating pastime with Albert Edward Wiggam, S. Sc., Author of "THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND."

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No. Because the people on the train, airplane or ship are looking at the scenery instead of at her. A beautiful woman is nearly always intensely conscious of her beauty—chiefly because people are always trying to get a good look at her without her seeing them—although she sees most of them all right. But when they are absorbed in looking at Pikes Peak or icebergs or the bears in Yellowstone Park, they forget her and she gets mightily peeved about it.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. True, provided you define what you mean by "stupidity" and by "mental level." Present indications are that about one-half of the American and Canadian peoples could go through high school—a pretty high mental level. Probably 15 out of every 100 could go through college—a very high mental level. If all people who are too low in learning ability to learn high school subjects—which is not the only kind of learning ability—are called "stupid," then we have a good many in that grade. Education, of course, will not raise the inborn learning capacity of the race, but we already have a vast deal of capacity that is not being used.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No. Man has a mind but, as a rule, he uses it only when he has to. Using the mind is hard work and man is by nature a hunting, fishing, fighting, singing, dancing, playing animal who hates work and gets out of all of it he can and loves to live by his emotions. Probably three-fourths of your every day acts are carried on by unconscious habit or else are pure emotional reactions and drives for which you could not give the remotest reason—except that you wanted to act that way. But why you wanted to act that way, you have little or no idea.

The Army Post Murders

By VIRGINIA HANSON

THE CHARACTERS

Katherine Cornish, myself, visiting Elizabeth on a mid-western Army post.

Elizabeth, Colonel Wright's daughter.

Adam Drew, acting commanding officer.

CHAPTER 25

Company for Charlie

There were still five or six cars parked in front of the club. The Shaws and Mrs. Orpington left reluctantly in one. We watched them turned left along Officers' Row, the car lights growing smaller in the distance.

Elizabeth was looking at me expectantly.

"I'm going over to bachelor quarters with Adam for a minute—to see Charlie," I explained.

As soon as I had spoken I saw that she was thinking with horror of the hour. And bachelor quarters. As a matter of fact I strait laced about such matters. I had never seen Charlie's rooms—and for all I knew there might be regulations about unchaperoned girls in bachelor quarters at any hour.

"We'll come with you," she was beginning resolutely, but plainly remembering her father's pointed instructions, when Adam neatly solved the impasse by her incontrolable fact of death.

"That won't be necessary. We're taking Mrs. Flower—the captain is waiting for her there. You and Annie run along home, and I'll bring Kay shortly."

Elizabeth's face cleared and a faint sigh escaped her, betraying that she too was tired. She patted my hand lightly, murmured almost word for word Adam's exhortation not to worry about Charlie. Then the little coupe meandered off toward home. I rode with Barney the short distance to the Officers' Club. He of the vacant room had been mopped up onto its retentive surface. It was rather a shame, I thought—the wrap was probably a prized possession. And she was being a good sport about it too. Not once had she lamented its ruin.

Adam knocked on a door at the rear of the second floor, and nounced, "Ladies to see you," and entered. After a preliminary inspection he swung the door wide and invited us in.

Whatever I had expected the young bachelors' quarters to be, fancy had pictured nothing like this. The windows were bare, so was the floor. There were chairs—mahogany, massive, battered, with shovel-shaped seat cushions that had been scooped out by years of squirming spines and never been reversed. A table littered with magazines and spilling onto the floor replaced the well-filled bookcase of my imagination. There was a mantelpiece whose sole use was obviously for the reception of forgotten cigarettes and emptied ashtrays. There were numerous ashtrays, mostly on the floor and all overflowing.

Through an open door I could see a tossed and tumbled quarter-master bed, and Charlie's back as he stuffed something hurriedly into a closet.

Then Charlie was occupying the doorway of his bedroom, explaining stuffy that he had not expected company and trying by his manner to counteract the impression given by his red face.

He was not looking his best. He had slept in his clothes. The tawny hair, whose engaging effortlessness was one of the things you remembered about him, now looked definitely wild. His eyes were bloodshot, and the hand which held a nonchalant cigaret trembled perceptibly. His eyes avoided mine and gleamed redly at Adam for a moment.

'Too Soft'

"What's the idea of keeping me here under guard?" he demanded coldly. "If you're accusing me of murder, let me see you do it through proper channels."

"Keep your shirt on," Adam advised mildly. "It's my impression that you were confined by your own—er—indisposition. You shouldn't have tanked up so liberally in language. Someone ought to deck all evening—you ought to know your weakness by now."

Charlie was going to be one of those choleric old men. I had a distinct momentary picture of him, hanging on both sides of a Sam Browne belt, raging purple faced against the New Army, against pacifists, against Congress, against the present rate of pay.

He was insisting angrily that he had been forbidden to leave his quarters by Captain Flower.

I saw him then, in the corner behind the door, correctly standing, a thumb between the pages of a magazine, a little, dedicated husk of a man with a patient mouth and extremely alert, intelligent dark eyes. He was looking at his wife—an intimate, understanding look that was reassuring, pleased, mildly complacent.

"You thought of that, did you?" she asked him brightly. "I thought you might."

Conversation paused to grope for a footing. Charlie's jaw sagged.

Barney was standing in the hall doorway, leaning against the casing, looking from face to face with a stupid sort of perplexity as if they were speaking a foreign language. Someone ought to put him to bed, I thought.

Adam suggested that, since the orders had come from Captain Flower, that gentleman was the one to explain them.

Charlie looked faintly surprised, as if there were nothing to explain.

"Seemed obvious," he murmured. "I listened around—every one thinking Charlie shot her. I heard the boy in my troop. Hot-headed but, sort of, a good guy for the killer, though, and Charlie over here alone. Murder often made to look like suicide, you know. . . ."

He paused, glanced at his wife, nodded.

"So you came up here. What time was that?" Adam prompted.

"Twelve—twelve-thirty. Don't know exactly. It was early. He was sound asleep."

Long before Ethel Curtis was killed, I felt as if I had been holding my breath for years and only now dared to let it go. I beamed upon the man with admiration and gratitude, but he was not aware of me.

"And you've been here ever since?"

"Ever since." And Charlie hasn't been out of these rooms?"

"Not once," said Captain Flower grimly. "I've kept my eye on him."

A most affable, engaging spread over Adam's face. He addressed Charlie.

"Young man, you ought to get down on your prayer bones and beg the captain to kick you. Very much against your will, I judge, he's done you a neat service. Matter of fact," he added genially, "he may have saved your worthless neck."

PRO GRID TEAMS TO FIGHT FOR EASTERN LAURELS ON SUNDAY

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—There is great excitement on the 42nd street campus these days for "them jints" are going to tangle with Comrade George Preston Marshall's Washingtons come Sunday at the Polo Grounds for the eastern championship of the pro league.

The game will also decide who is the best forward passer in the world, Samuel Adrian Baugh, the Redskins aerialist, or Ed Danowski, the old Fordham Blue who pitches for the Giants. They are neck and neck for the league passing title.

The prospect of these two hurling pigskins all over the field will attract one of the biggest crowds of the pro season if the weather is right.

There is much fear of Ole Massa Baugh hereabouts. Last year he and Cliff Battles passed and ran the Giants right out of the Polo Grounds. The Redskins then went on to lift the national title and spoon the resultant exhibition game gravy. This year the Giants swear they will close the account. They lead the Redskins by a half game in the Eastern Division and they have been very, very hot for a month. They whipped Green Bay's Packers and tied the Brooklyn Dodgers and they think they are coming while the Redskins are going.

The suspicion exists that while this is a real good Washington club it is not up to the 1937 model, Cliff Battles is now coaching the backs at Columbia. You cannot lose a running back of Battles' ability without feeling it.

FIVE STATESMEN TO STUDY PROBLEM OF JEWISH REFUGEES

London, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Five statesmen, representing the United States, Great Britain, France, the Netherlands and Brazil, tackled today the gigantic problem of finding sanctuary for the potential 5,000,000 European refugees who are seeking new homes.

Informed sources said the group would try to crack Germany's "flight tax" rule which strips Jews of virtually all they own as they leave Germany, tending to make them public charges on countries allowing them to enter.

With that barrier removed, the statesmen, who form the "inner committee" of the intergovernmental board formed at Evian-Les-Bains, France, last summer, would expect better reaction to the committee efforts from South American and British empire countries.

Today's meeting of the committee was the first since the recent anti-Semitic drive started in Germany.

The British chairman, Earl Winterton, and the American permanent executive director, George Rublee, submitted reports on work done since the committee was formed.

Meanwhile, the first 200 German Jewish children reached English exile this morning when the steamer Prague docked at Harwich. The children were from Berlin and Hamburg.

Some of the group were taken by bus to Dovercourt camp near Harwich, where they will live under the care of teachers and physicians until homes are found for them.

STRANGE YARNS ARE TOLD OF MENTOR OF TEXAS TECH SQUAD

The Red Raiders are undefeated and united. The Gaels lost only to Fordham and California. Cawthon is one of the strangest figures in football. Defeats don't come as part of his makeup. Often, when his Raiders take a licking, he vanishes for days.

In the early 30's Southern Methodist defeated what Cawthon believed was his best club, 14-0. After the game, he strode out of the stadium. No one could find him.

The Methodists pulled out for Dallas that night. Shortly after dawn, a head popped out of an upper berth, peered around. It was Cawthon, in the Methodist football car!

Once when his Raiders dropped a game to their traditional rival, Simmons, Cawthon figured his tackle play had a particularly bad odor. He ordered the battered tackles to "lap" the stadium until he advised them to quit.

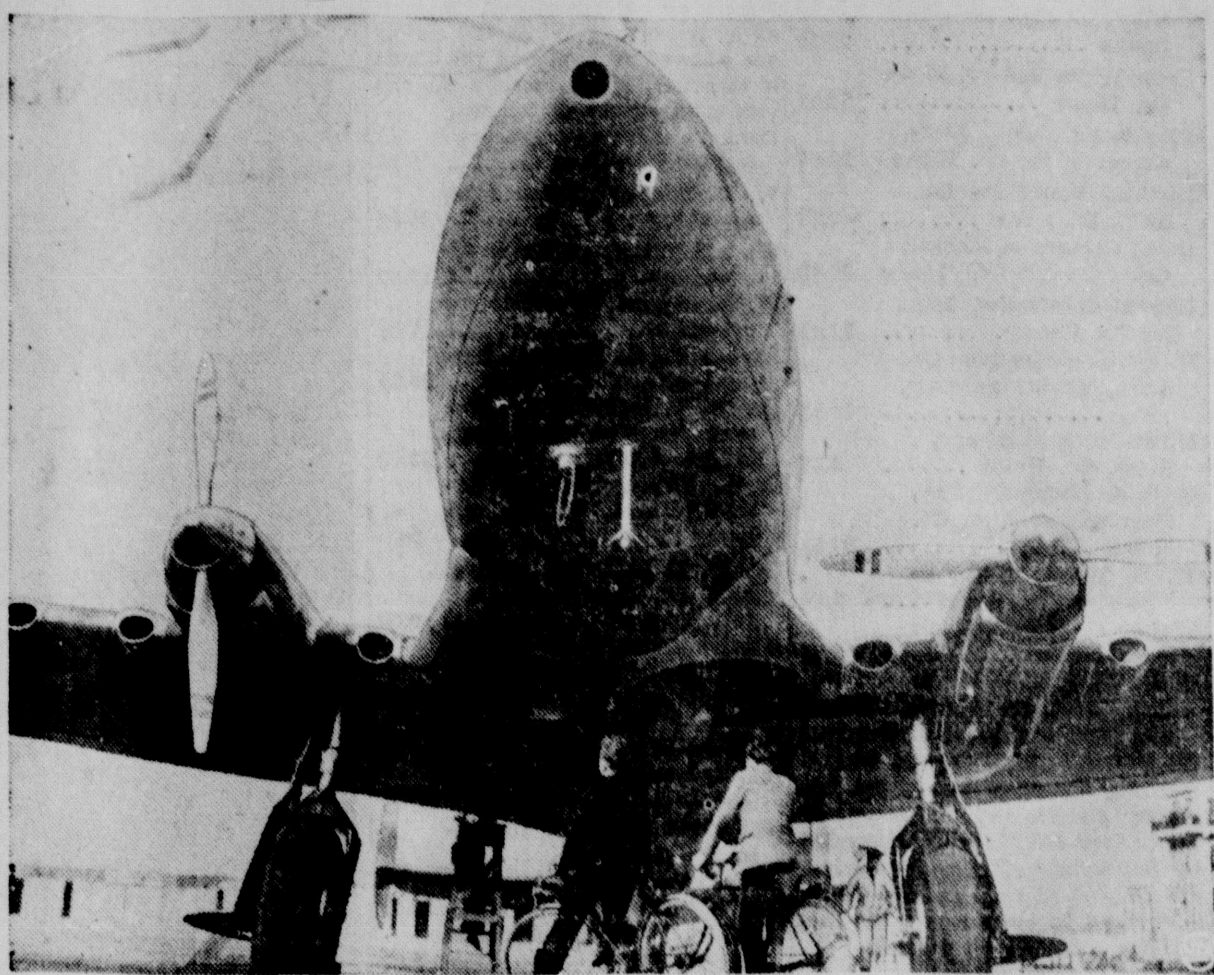

After he went home, he remembered a package he had left at the stadium. Back he trudged and there, tongues on their chests, were the forgotten tackles.

Cawthon thought so much of their loyalty he awarded them the "Texas Tech" blanket—given only to captains of opposing teams.

A public park is being built on 6,313-foot-high Roan mountain, located on the North Carolina-Tennessee state line.

Engagement rings were made of iron early in Roman days, the gold ring for the occasion being introduced in the second century.

FANFARE

By DON DANIELSON

Basketball gets under way tonight with a blast of the referee's whistle which will sound all over the county and surrounding territory. The main attraction for the majority of townsfolk will be that curtain lifter at the high school as the Alumni meet the Sharpshooters. Four other games will be attracting fans in Lee county. These tilts include: Ashton at Lee Center, Mendota at Amboy, Creston at Lee and Hinckley at Paw Paw. Outside the limits of the county boundaries, but still within the interest of many, are five other battles: Forrester at Byron, Kings at Malta, Monroe at Leaf River, Rochelle vs. Alumni and Sandwich at DeKalb.

In the opening bout on the fight card at Sterling last night, Ivan Helmick of Dixon was defeated in the 155-pound class by Bert Young of Bloomington. A crowd of 1,000 saw the fight and in the main event of the evening Linto Guerrieri of Rock Falls, International Golden Gloves champion, evened the score with John Purcell of Peoria. Purcell forced Linto to bow to him in the Freeport windup Wednesday night. Last night, however, the champ won every round to square accounts.

Coach Ted Scheid of Sterling Township high has announced 106 football awards for this year. Of this number there are 25 major letters, including two given in recognition of four year service, 15 minor "B" letters, 25 "B" numerals, 38 freshman awards and three manager honors. Of the 25 major letters, 15 will be lost by graduation next June. Only one minor "B" and one "B" numeral winners will be lost.

Giving the entries in the sports contest the once-over, there seems to be some cracker-jack material offered for the prize to be awarded to the person who sends in the best letter selecting an All-American football team and giving reasons for the choices. The contest will close on Dec. 9 and all entries must be signed. Have you named your star-squad yet?

Mendota at Amboy tonight will be one of the major basketball tilts in the county. Dixon fans will keep an ear to the ground for results from the Lee county camp in an effort to sound out the power and size of the Mendota men. Dixon and Mendota meet on Jan. 15 in a game which calls up as a North Central conference engagement. Always an ardent rival, Mendota promises to furnish the boys of Coach William Welty at Amboy a night of keen competition. As an added attraction, Nelson Potter of Mt. Morris, Philadelphia Athletics' pitcher, will referee the games.

Dixon High School's Basketball Squad to Open Season Tonight in Games With the Graduate Teams

Preliminary Game Is Scheduled to Begin at 7 O'clock in School Gymnasium

PROBABLE STARTERS TONIGHT
High School	Pos.	Alumni
Louis Bevilacqua	forward	Ed Callahan, '38
Gene McNamara	forward	Al Boyd, '35
Ardell Bugg	center	Sammy Bellows, '33
Al Weinman	guard	Bob Krug, '36
Joe Crawford	guard	LaVerne McMillion, '37

TIME: B teams at 7:00 P. M. Main event about 8 P. M. Tonight.

PLACE: High school gymnasium. OFFICIALS: Milt Vaughn of Rockford and Chester Ellis of Rochelle.

COACHES: Charlie Roundy (Alumni); L. E. Sharpe (High school varsity); C. B. Lindell (High school B team); Ken Barnhart (Alumni manager.)

As the fans of Dixon high school's basketball team leave the school gymnasium tonight, they will have a fair idea of what may be expected of Coach L. E. Sharpe's players during the 1938-1939 season.

Tonight two high school teams match their speed and accuracy against the stars of former days in the annual battle with the Alumni. The stage is set, the players are ready and it takes only the shrill blast of the referee's whistle to ring up the curtain.

The graduate players have been practicing for the past three weeks in an effort to double check the victory over the Sharpshooters last year when they defeated them in a close 31 to 30 affair. The high school players have been working equally as seriously since the close of the football season in preparation for that "they-shall-not-pass" spirit which they hope will avenge last year's lashing.

The grads this year, as in other seasons, are being piloted through their paces by Charlie Roundy, coach of the grade school, and being managed under the eagle eye of Ken Barnhart. In practice the boys have looked "hot" and have exhibited plenty of zip and style.

Alumni Players

Coach Sharpe has commented on his team this year by describing the boys as the largest in a long time. Of the first string outfit, the average height is about six feet. Two tall boys, Russell Bush and Earl Page have been absent from practice thus far and when they return the size of players will be increased. Page is still favoring a leg injury received in the Sterling-Dixon football game and Bush is recovering from a recent operation.

Probable Starters
Coach Sharpe has named Bevilacqua and McNamara as probable starting forwards. Bugg as center and Weinman and Crawford as guards. Other candidates are Youngmark, center; Kelly and Witzel, forwards and Moore, Cox and McNichols, guards.

Of these players Weinman is the only one who saw action in the first string lineup against the varsity last year. McNamara, Crawford, Cox, Bevilacqua and Bugg all played in the B game which they won by trimming the grads 24 to 20.

Besides the players mentioned, Coach Sharpe has a string of 35 players still "out for" the basketball team, first string or second.

Next Friday night the Sharpshooters meet Freeport here.

The first North Central conference game will be on Dec. 22 with Sterling here. Last year the locals tied for second place in the loop with Belvidere as DeKalb won the championship.

IRISH MARCH INTO CALIFORNIA TODAY IN FULL STRENGTH

Los Angeles, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Irish of Notre Dame march into Los Angeles late today, 36 strong, for their 13th annual joust on the gridiron with the Trojan warriors of Southern California.

The sturdy invaders, riding high along an unbroken trail of eight victories, will be taken into seclusion, and Los Angeles will see little of them until they trot out on the Coliseum turf tomorrow at 2 o'clock (4 P. M. CST).

The Irish followed a custom originated by the late Knute Rockne in stopping over in Tucson, Ariz., for final practice sessions, and sent word ahead that the squad was in splendid shape for the game.

Tonight the Trojan campus will blaze with torchlights, and the huge banquet hall will be filled with guests as the annual homecoming week reaches one of its highest pitches.

Southern California backers were more hopeful than confident of victory, but few would be downright surprised if the Trojans upset the Irish. They think Notre Dame should be favored, but that the Irish will have a fight on their hands to win.

ROSES FOR BIG 10 SUBJECT BEFORE ANNUAL MEETING

Conference Schedules are Mapped Out for 1942 Grid Games

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—Whether or not the Western Conference champions and the Pacific Coast titleholders should meet annually in the Rose Bowl rested today upon Big Ten faculty representatives.

Substitution of the Big Ten champions for the "eastern" representative in the Rose Bowl has been a subject of discussion in conference circles ever since the Big Ten agreed to an annual track meet with the Pacific Coast conference.

Representatives of Western Conference schools were engrossed with schedule making yesterday. There was no mention of alteration of the rule which closes the conference football schedule on the Saturday before Thanksgiving.

Idea Is Favored.
Several Big Ten coaches favor the idea and the possibility remained the suggestion would come before the meeting of faculty representatives today.

Yesterday's session deflated the idea of the University of Chicago Maroons would lighten their football schedule.

Athletic directors and football coaches drafted a gridiron schedule for 1942 which put Chicago on the books for four conference games, as compared with their three slated for the next three seasons.

Chicago authorities recently announced a gradual lightening of the Maroon schedule. The Maroons have won but one conference game in the past three seasons and only one game in eight starts during the past season.

1942 Schedules.
The 1942 schedule will find Chicago facing Indiana, Ohio State, Michigan and Illinois.

Both the Maroons and the Hoosiers found difficulty in completing their schedules. Alvin Nugent "Bo" McMillin's Hoosiers were carded for 1942 games with Chicago, Iowa, Minnesota and Purdue.

Notre Dame—the "eleventh member of the Big Ten"—was scheduled against Wisconsin, Northwestern, and Illinois in 1942. Six league games were set for Minnesota, Ohio State, Northwestern, Illinois, Michigan and Iowa in that year. Purdue and Wisconsin booked five conference games each.

ZUPPKE REGARDS CRISIS OVER JOB AS MERE MISTAKE

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—Bob Zupke has crossed off his rejected resignation as University of Illinois football coach as "a mistake—something that was never intended to happen."

Speaking before 700 guests at the annual Illini Club of Chicago football banquet last night, Zupke urged Illinois alumni to "be big, be loyal and forget everything" about the resignation which was submitted under pressure of the university athletic board but was rejected by the board of trustees.

Zupke had a setting of harmony for his remarks. Athletic Director Wendell Wilson, who had carried the resignation to the board of trustees, was not present, although he was in Chicago. None of the veteran coach's critics was introduced.

Zupke, with 26 years of service at Illinois behind him, was introduced by Harold "Red" Grange, one of his brightest stars, with the hope that "Zup will have 26 more years at Illinois."

The coach himself set at rest any rumors of reprisals or vindictiveness by branding a "purge" as "un-Illinois."

He described his 1938 team, which lost five games while winning three, as a group "that stretched itself to the limit—but didn't have enough strength." For next season he predicted even rougher going, pointing out the Illini play at Southern California early in the season.

At affairs of state in Washington, custom gives precedence to foreign ambassadors over all American officials except the president and vice president.

Cold storage lockers to preserve meats, fruits and vegetables are now being used by 800,000 to 1,000,000 American families estimates show.

AMATEUR ATHLETIC UNION CELEBRATES A GOLDEN JUBILEE

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—On the golden jubilee of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, marked by the opening today of that organization's 50th annual convention, a backward glance over the history and files of the A. A. U. showed a remarkable growth.

On January 21, 1888, with 13 athletic clubs as charter members, the A. A. U. adopted a constitution and by-laws and set out to clean up an amateur sport situation that was getting completely out of hand.

One year later it had become so powerful that its only rival, the National Association of Amateur Athletics of America, gave up the fight for control and brought its members into the A. A. U.

By 1891 the union had grown so appreciably its original set-up no longer could cope with its membership. Under the direction of Col. A. G. Mills, the A. A. U. was reorganized, the plan of an association of clubs was discarded, and in its place was substituted a national board controlling five sectional associations, each of which had "home rule."

While the set-up basically remains the same, those five associations have mushroomed into 39, all represented at this convention. The 3,000 competing athletes of 1888 have become literally millions of competing athletes of 1938, and the A. A. U. now is the most powerful sports governing body in the world.

Storm That Raged Over Pitt's Athletic Policy Breaks Out Anew Today

Pittsburgh, Dec. 2 (AP)—The storm that has agitated the campus of the University of Pittsburgh since Pitt's adoption of its "strictly amateur" policy of athletics raged anew today as 22 freshmen athletes demanded a "showdown" on their status.

The tempest caused by the first year players broke two weeks ago when the athletes protested receipt of bills for $150 each for tuition for the first semester. They admitted they signed notes covering the amounts but insisted they understood they were only formality.

The disturbance simmered down after the university announced that, if the freshmen believed they signed under a misunderstanding, the notes would be canceled for one year only. But yesterday, the freshmen went to the office of business manager John Weber and, Weber said, presented new demands.

These included statements that the freshmen understood they were to work only 15 or 20 minutes a day and that athletic eligibility applications were to be "only a formality." The freshmen also insisted they settle their grievances with university officials as a group and not as individuals. They now work several hours daily.

ROCHELLE COACH IS GROOMING SQUAD FOR WINTER GAMES

(Telegraph Special Service)

Rochelle, Dec. 2—Coach Helms, who is in his fourth year as coach and athletic director of the Rochelle Township high school, faces one of the most difficult tasks in developing a winning combination that has confronted a Rochelle coach for sometime.

Mr. Helms has only two veterans left from last year's winning squad on which to build this season's team. The two veterans are Guis and Tigan. Some promising material has been exhibited in the new recruits for the team this year, but the coach says all of these boys will need plenty of experience before they will be of any great value.

Coach Helms is noted for developing green material into a finished team, and what may now appear as early-season discouragement, may turn into a victorious combination.

Twenty-two boys are still on the squad after the first "sorting", and those who have watched the team are of the opinion that Rochelle will develop into a tough contender for conference and district honors.

Practice sessions are being held daily and both heavy and lightweight squads have been confined to fundamental drills and conditioning exercises. Regular scrimmage will be started this week.

The complete schedule is as follows:

- Dec. 9—Harlem, here.
- Jan. 27—Amboy, here.
- Dec. 16—Mt. Morris, there.
- Dec. 23—Morrison, here.
- Jan. 6—Oregon, there.

TOP FLIGHT GOLFERS ARE AIMING FOR POT OF GOLD ON COURSE

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 2 (AP)—With $5,000 to shoot at, a field of more than 130 top flight golfers, including about two dozen amateurs, teed off today in the Augusta open tournament over the narrow fairways of the Forest Hills par 71 course.

Highly favored to win a share of the medal play prize money were Ben G. Hogan, Texas youngster, Byron Nelson, slender shooter from Reading, Pa., and Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y.

Awaiting the winner is a cash prize of $1,200.

A poll of professionals entered revealed a strong undercurrent of doubt as to the ability of Sammy Snead, ace money winner of 1938, to fare any too well over the tricky course.

ASSOCIATED PRESS ANNOUNCES ITS ALL-STAR PACIFIC TEAM

San Francisco, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Associated Press' fourteenth annual all-Pacific coast football team announced today, combines a big, extremely mobile line and a backfield embracing both speed and tremendous power.

It averages 203 pounds on the line and 184 pounds in the backfield.

Alvord Wolff, University of Santa Clara tackle, was the only non-Pacific coast conference player to win a first team position. Coaches, officials and sports writers from all sections of the far west participated in the consensus vote.

The team:
End—Jay McDowell, Washington, 17, 6'2", 197, Soph., Oak Park, Ill.

End—Joe Wendlick, Oregon State, 20, 5'8", 205, Jr., Portland, Ore.

Tackle—Dave De Varona, Calif., 21, 6'1", 187, Sr., San Diego.

FRENCH PREMIER FACES TROUBLE- SOME SITUATION

More Strikes and Threat of Italian Seizure of Colonies Disturbing

Paris, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The dual danger of more strikes with increasing bitterness among labor at home and what was feared to be an Italian campaign for colonies in Africa confronted the government of Premier Edouard Daladier today.

The new strikes were in protest against discharge of workmen who led the one-day general walk-out Wednesday which Daladier crushed before it could have marked effect.

The General Confederation of Labor and the socialist party charged 1,500,000 workers were discharged, suspended or locked out of factories. An informant who knew government sources put the figure at "not more than 70,000."

A general strike at Saint Nazaire, which included calls to 11,000 metal and shipyard workers, appeared to have at least early success.

Thousands refused to report for duty in the port's shipyards and metal factories in defiance of the government's threats of layoffs and withdrawal of vacation and seniority rights.

At Le Havre, 12,000 textile employees were called out and smaller strikes were ordered elsewhere. Mobile guards and gendarmes were on hand to maintain order.

No Early Disorders

Up to noon there had been no disorders. Many major plants were crippled, however. In one big shipyard only 80 of a total personnel of 1,500 reported to work; only one-third of the workers of another appeared. The plant of the National Aeronautique Construction Company of the west remained closed.

A squad of mobile guards fought a 15-minute battle with 800 pickets attempting to enforce a metal workers' strike at the northern industrial town of Denain. Several of each side were wounded.

Of the 25,000 workers who walked out in the northern metal works, only 10,000 remained on strike. Northern coal mines were working virtually at normal.

The cries of "Tunisia" from fascist deputies in the Italian parliament during a speech by the foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, Wednesday provoked the international situation and led Foreign Minister Bonnet last night to request "explanations" of Italian intentions toward Tunisia, Djibouti and Corsica.

To Compensate Italy

The fascist press continued the matter, and French official quarters believed it marked the beginning of a German and Italian campaign to compensate Italy in the Mediterranean for fascist support when the Nazis got Austria and part of Czechoslovakia.

Despite his easy victory over labor's general strike and although industrialists held the new sympathy strike movement lacked general momentum, it seemed apparent the premier's troubles at home were just beginning.

His discharge of the leaders and many of their followers sent a wave of anger over labor, which had hoped for a gesture of "appeasement."

Moscow's Strange Twin Sisters Reported Dead

Moscow, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Irina and Galina, Moscow's strange twin sisters, died today.

The baby girls had two heads, two pairs of arms and two backbones but only one body from the chest down. They were one year and 22 days old.

From the time they were six weeks old they had been in the All-Union Institute of Experimental Medicine, objects of scientific research and wide public interest in the Soviet Union.

They died of pneumonia—Irina 30 minutes after Galina.

A sleeping potion given to one girl would cause both to sleep but pin pricks in one side of the body caused only one head to cry.

Various phases of their development and behavior, including their death, have been preserved in motion picture film.

The body was given to anatomist for further study and the brains to the brain institute.

Skeletons of sea creatures often are found in sections of the Himalaya mountains.

GOOD THOUGHTS.

All that a man does outwardly is but the expression and completion of his inward thought. To work effectually, he must think clearly; to act nobly, he must think nobly.

—Channing.

—Caryle.

Fine thoughts are wealth, for the right use of which men are, and ought to be, accountable.

—Bailey.

We are shaped and fashioned by what we love.

—Goethe.

Nothing aside from the spiritualization—yes, the highest Christianization—of thought and desire, can give the true perception of God and divine Celine, that results in health, happiness and holiness.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God.

—Romans 12.

STATE TO CELE- BRATE BIRTHDAY

Illinois Admitted to Federal Union 120 Years Ago Tomorrow

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Illinois was admitted to the Federal union of states 120 years ago tomorrow.

It was on December 3, 1818 that President James Monroe signed the joint congressional resolution recognizing the state.

It was difficult for the census takers of 120 years ago to muster 40,000 inhabitants, the population requirement for Illinois' recognition as a state. Today, the estimated population is 7,850,000.

The territorial capital building at Kaskaskia was a small stone building, no larger than a modest dwelling. And when Sidney Breese, later Chief Justice of the Illinois Supreme Court, transferred the state records to Vandalia in 1820, the operation required only one trip of a small wagon.

Pope Had Vision

Nathaniel Pope, territorial representative in Washington, who had much to do with the establishment of Illinois, had a vision of great destiny for the new state when he wrote in 1817:

"We will enter upon a state government with better prospects than any state ever did—the best soil in the world, a mild climate, a large state—our avenues for navigation are towards the east and the west, the north and the south."

Pope it was who insisted that the northern boundary of Illinois should extend along a line "forty-two degrees and thirty minutes north latitude" instead of "a line ten miles north of the southernmost point of Lake Michigan" favored by other planners. This insistence before Congress won 41 additional miles of Lake Michigan frontage and an equal amount of Mississippi river facing for Illinois.

Large Cities Listed

In 1818 there were almost no white settlers north of Edwardsville—nearly the northern two-thirds of the state being unsettled. Chicago existed only because it was an army post. Peoria was merely a fur-trading station. Indians roamed the northern third of the state with unrestricted freedom.

A book by Edmund Dana, published in Cincinnati in 1819—Geographical Sketches on the Western Country—which is preserved by the Illinois State Historical Library, listed the chief towns of Illinois as Belleville, Brownsville, Carmi, Edwardsville, Golconda, Harrisonville, Kaskaskia, Palestine, Palmyra, Perrysville and Shawneetown.

RADIO ROOM HERO OF SHIP TRAGEDY FACES PRISON TERM

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 2.—(AP)—George W. Rogers, 41-year-old radio room hero of the Morro Castle disaster, was in a jail cell today awaiting sentence on a conviction of trying to kill his superior in the Bayonne police department with a home-made bomb.

The state charged Rogers sent the bomb to Lieutenant Vincent J. Doyle in a plot to get Doyle's job.

Common Pleas Judge Thomas H. Brown, who heard the trial without a jury, said that "while the case against this defendant is built on circumstantial evidence, it is the solemn conclusion that this defendant is guilty as charged." He will pronounce sentence December 15.

Rogers, who stuck to his post as chief radio operator when the Morro Castle burned off the New Jersey coast in 1934 with loss of 124 lives, faces a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison.

Three fingers were blown off Doyle's left hand and his left leg was broken when a "fish tank heater" bearing a typewritten note asking him to repair it blew up in his hand March 4.

Judge Brown found Rogers guilty of assault with intent to kill as the trial ended late yesterday.

Rogers, who was appointed to the police force shortly after his wide acclaim as a hero in the sea disaster, denied he left the bomb for Doyle.

One-Legged Veteran of War Takes Driver's Test

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Lyle Gift, Peoria insurance salesman and World War veteran, will be the first person to undergo examination under the new Illinois drivers' license law.

Chief Walter Williams of the state highway police said he had notified Gift to appear at the Peoria county courthouse at 10:30 Tuesday morning for his personal driving tests to be given by three state policemen.

Gift, who lost a leg while overseas during the World War, is required to undergo the examination because of his physical handicap.

Downstate drivers will be examined by a special detail of 50 highway police officers while employees of the secretary of state will conduct examinations in Cook county.
